By a yea-and-nay vote of 106 yeas to 267 nays, rejected a motion to recommit the bill to the Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs with instructions to report it back to the House with an amendment that basically contained the text of H.R. 12898.

Agreed to the committee amendment in the nature of a substitute, as amended.

House took the following actions in the Committee of the Whole on the Committee amendment in the nature of a substitute:

Agreed to:

(1) An amendment that requires that a geologist prepare a map of a surface to be mined only when subsurface information is deemed essential by the regulatory authority;

(2) An amendment that gives the regulatory authority, rather than the operator, the responsibility for notifying local governments of any proposed surface mining (agreed to by a division vote of 25 ayes to 15 noes);

(3) An amendment that adds language requiring a separate set of regulations on anthracite coal mines;

(4) An amendment that requires that, with any application for bond release, the regulatory authority must notify the municipality in which a surface mining operation is located at least 30 days prior to the release of the bond;

(5) An amendment, as amended, that allows the continuation of strip mining that is occurring at the time of enactment in national forests in which the rights to coal have been conveyed to the United States (agreed to by a division vote of 31 ayes to 8 noes). Originally, the amendment sought to simply strike language prohibiting surface mining in national forests;

(6) The substitute amendment to amendment No. 5 (agreed to by a division vote of 23 ayes to 15 noes);

(7) An amendment that allows only persons whose interests will be adversely affected by mining to bring suit;

(8) An amendment that allows suits only by a person whose interests are adversely affected;

(9) An amendment providing that room and pillar continuous mining be considered an acceptable method of mining;

(10) An amendment making mandatory rather than discretionary the Secretary's authority to require compliance with antitrust laws as a condition for any permit;

(11) An amendment to the provisions permitting petitions to eliminate strip mining in an area that allows any person to file a like petition stating his interests;

(12) An amendment to the provisions on the obligation of funds for reclamation projects that requires the Secretary to give priority to the county in which the minerals were mined;

(13) An amendment, as amended, to the provisions on the abandoned mine reclamation fund that deletes the severance tax provisions and substitutes a plan for earmarking $200 million annually for the fund from revenues received under the Outer Continental Shelf Lands Act. Prior to its amendment by a substitute, as amended, the amendment sought to provide for a fee of $2.50 per million per ton with credits of up to 90 percent of the gross fee for the costs of reclamation activities and coal mine safety activities;

(14) A substitute amendment as amended, to amendment No. 13 that provides for $200 million annually from revenues of the Outer Continental Shelf Act. Prior to its amendment the amendment sought to delete the severance tax and substitute an annual appropriation of $125 million;

(15) An amendment to amendment No. 14 that substitutes the $200 million fund for the $125 million appropriation;

(16) On a split question, agreed to part of an amendment that strikes out section 404 on reclamation responsibility. Subsequently, rejected the second half of the amendment which sought to delete section 405 on reclamation of rural lands (rejected by a division vote of 7 ayes to 29 noes);

(17) An amendment that gives the Secretary of the Interior limited authority to designate certain urban areas unsuitable for mining of minerals other than coal;

(18) An amendment that exempts Alaska from the provisions of the bill for 3 years pending completion of a study on the environmental impact of surface mining on the State;

(20) An amendment that protects owners of water rights from loss of the quantity or quality of their water;

(21) An amendment that adds recommendations for increasing the production of underground mining to the items included in the Secretary's annual report;

(22) An amendment that adds language requiring the development of regulations to give priority for reclamation projects to owners of surface areas adversely affected by mining and to persons unemployed by the effects of the act; and

(23) An amendment that includes a working coal miner as a member of the advisory committee on mining and mineral research.

Rejected:

(1) An amendment that sought to insert a new section 210 on application requirements;

(2) An amendment that sought to provide that every citizen be able to file suit to prevent the restriction of surface mining if such restriction would increase U.S. dependence on imported fuels (rejected by a division vote of 13 ayes to 23 noes);

(3) An amendment that sought to provide that suits could be brought by any person who had an interest which might be adversely affected by mining operations (rejected by a division vote of 14 ayes to 23 noes);

(4) An amendment that sought to require submission of a surface mining economic impact report to Congress on any proposed mining (rejected by a division vote of 19 ayes to 21 noes);

(5) An amendment that sought to add language excluding slopes of 20 degrees from surface mining after the interim period (rejected by a division vote of 20 ayes to 25 noes);

(6) An amendment that sought to strike language allowing written objections to proposed mining operations only by a person with a valid interest (rejected by a division vote of 3 ayes to 15 noes);

(10) An amendment to amendment No. 13 (of amendments agreed to above) that sought to finance the reclamation fund from a fee of $1.50 per ton on surface-mined coal and 15 cents a ton on underground-mined coal with 50 percent of such revenues to be repaid to the States (rejected by a division vote of 32 ayes to 40 noes);

(11) An amendment that sought to strike title IV on abandoned mine reclamation (rejected by a division vote of 2 ayes to 38 noes);

(12) An amendment that sought to strike title V which creates an Office of Surface Reclamation and Enforcement (rejected by a division vote of 4 ayes to 27 noes);

(13) An amendment that sought to strike the protection for surface owners where coal is privately owned and provided that in cases where the surface is privately owned and the coal federally owned, the operator would have to obtain the written consent of the surface owner or post a bond to secure payment of damages to the surface estate;

(14) An amendment to the previous amendment that sought to apply the provisions to all lands and not just to Federal lands;

(15) An amendment that sought to prohibit surface mining on any Federal lands (rejected by a division vote of 8 ayes to 29 noes);

(16) An amendment that sought to provide that the term "appropriate original contour" include a stipulation that the general elevation of the overall mined area may be lower than its original elevation, providing all highwalls are eliminated (rejected by a division vote of 4 ayes to 18 noes); and

(17) An amendment that sought to strike title VIII on the State Mining and Mineral Resources Research Institute (rejected by a division vote of 6 ayes to 28 noes).
